

PRESS RELEASE

SPL, Inc. Appoints Dave Curtis as EVP of Corporate Strategy

Houston, Texas—October 21, 2019—SPL, Inc., the leader in hydrocarbon testing, inspection, and certification, announced today that Dave Curtis has joined the organization as its Executive Vice President of Corporate Strategy. With more than 27 years of measurement and analytical experience, Mr. Curtis will lead the Company's corporate strategy and ensure that they are aligned with customer demand for years to come.

"We are pleased to welcome Dave to the SPL team. His wealth of industry experience, when coupled with SPL's transformative digital strategy, will unlock new solutions to help our customers overcome the challenges they're facing in this ever-changing environment," said Jeff Hibbeler, SPL chief executive officer. "Over the past 18 months, SPL has grown rapidly throughout North America. Dave provides an unprecedented level of senior leadership that will help secure SPL's long-term strategy of being the largest global testing, inspection, and certification (TIC) company across the full hydrocarbon value chain."

Prior to joining SPL, Mr. Curtis served as the Measurement and Product Validation Manager at Anadarko Petroleum Corporation. Prior to this role, Dave owned and operated a consulting company, which provided critical engineering services to the industry. He is involved in multiple industry groups, such as the American Petroleum Institute and GPA Midstream, and has extensive experience working with local, state, and federal agencies. He holds a master's degree in Civil Engineering from Norwich University.

###

About SPL, Inc.

SPL is a globally recognized industry leader in hydrocarbon measurement, characterization, and production analytics. The company combines ISO-certified labs in key basins throughout North America, verifiable test methods, and world-renowned scientists with patented software and digital workflows to bring more confidence and insights to our customers' hydrocarbon data. For more information, go to www.spl-inc.com.

Media Contact: Wendy Gray; 832-776-7683; wendy@graymattermktg.com